課程描述 Course Description
Both strengthening writing ability and knowing more about how to write better for assigned topics are the main points of this course. How to write a good paragraph of definition, process analysis, description, opinion, narrative, and, last but not least, an essay, is what will be dealt with one by one in this semester. Obviously, we go from a paragraph into an essay for building sound writing. This means we move from writing a good paragraph with a topic sentence to an essay with well-structured paragraphs. One grammar chapter will be the review assignment nearly every week for bettering writing. Besides sentence pattern introduction is included for writing sentences with variety. Peer review will be done after paragraph or essay writing for learning from classmates. The same, students are required to attend classes, turn in all assignments besides taking mid-term and final exams.
