School Mission

The College of Management (COM) emphasizes internationalization, education and localization, which shapes its mission to cultivate outstanding management and academic talents who are aware of the impact of globalization and ethical issues and are able to integrate a diversity of knowledge and possess the analytical decision-making and execution abilities to build a brighter future. Students can achieve the five learning goals derived from the school mission, including LG1-integration of a diversity of business and management knowledge, LG2-analytical decision-making ability, LG3-execution, LG4-global vision, and LG5-ethics

This course covers essential topics of seminar on Business Ethics, and is chosen to evaluate undergraduate students for the following learning goals and learning objectives.

Learning Goals- LG5 Ethics

Learning Objectives- 5.1 Understand professional ethics and be able to identify unethical behaviors;
5.2 Understand corporate social responsibility and sustainable development

Assessment methods for intended LGs and LOs:

The evaluation of learning effectiveness of the course includes two parts, the end-of-term assessment (final exam) and feedback concerning a series of special topic speeches (speech report), and each account for 50%.

After studying a series of key topics on this course, students should be equipped with related skills and knowledge to distinguish ethical behaviors from unethical ones, as well as the fundamental decision making process of ethics. Reports concerning special topic speeches is well suited for evaluate the intended learning objectives because each student can absorb how companies, varying different industries, do about their social responsibilities and how they try to sustain the environment. The packages including aforementioned skills and knowledge would be further tested by the final exam.
