課程描述 Course Description
This course is the first of a two-semester sequence designed to guide students in producing a polished academic research essay. Throughout the academic year, students will work on a topic of their choice, as this course is grounded in the belief that writing is a method of learning applicable across all fields and disciplines. In the fall semester, students will learn to find credible sources, summarize main ideas from their readings, analyze background information, and produce a research proposal outlining the central research question that they will explore further in the spring semester. Additionally, students will be introduced to fundamental concepts such as audience awareness and rhetorical strategies for crafting an academic argument. This course emphasizes active learning, incorporating class discussions, small group activities, problem-solving exercises, and peer reviews, all of which will help students produce drafts that meet academic standards.. After completing this course, students will be able to <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• demonstrate rhetorical awareness of diverse audiences, situations, and contexts</li> <li>• compose a variety of texts in a range of forms</li> <li>• critically think about writing and rhetoric through reading, analysis, and reflection</li> <li>• provide constructive feedback to others and incorporate feedback into their writing</li> </ul>

Course Policies

- Complete weekly learning goals and assignment before coming to each class meeting.
- Your active participation in class is required.
- NO late work!
- Using electronic devices for purposes other than course-related learning is strictly prohibited. I will ask you to put away your device for the first time. If you are caught off-tasking again, you will be counted absent for the day.
- You have 1 free absence this semester. However, starting from the second absence, your final grade for this course will be reduced by one third of a letter grade for each day you are absent. You must notify me in advance in case of absence. It is your responsibility to ask for makeup work for each class you miss. Please refer to the "Attendance and Absence" section in your course policy for more details.
- You will be marked as late if you arrive more than 10 minutes after the class begins. 3 latenesses will count as 1 absence.
- If you need any special accommodation, please let me know ASAP.
